

Phoenix

A woman with blonde hair, wearing a gold sequined crop top and a long orange dress, lies on a white table. She is surrounded by a complex network of black and gold wires and cables. Her eyes are closed, and she appears to be in a state of unconsciousness or death. The background is a dense, metallic, and wire-like structure, possibly a futuristic or industrial setting. The lighting is warm and golden, creating a dramatic and somewhat somber atmosphere.

Over recent weeks we've been carrying out our annual customer survey – our biggest and most in-depth survey of the year. We get well over 1,000 responses each time we run it, and it tells us so much about what people really think about Phoenix, what we do well, and what we can improve to make your visits even more enjoyable.

Our surveys also help us to understand who our customers are.

We expanded our venue in 2023, and since then we've also expanded our programme – working with more community partners to engage new and diverse audiences. And we're starting to see the impact of this work, with more young people coming to Phoenix, more people from global majority communities, more people with disabilities, and more people with different identities who all feel that Phoenix is a place for them.

Safe, welcoming, accessible, inclusive.

These aren't just words. They are at the heart of everything Phoenix does.

Phoenix's mission is to bring inspiring film and art to everyone. Knowing who's already coming to Phoenix is important... but knowing who we're not yet reaching is even more important. These are the people who may be facing barriers to engagement that we can help to overcome – our accessible venue and Access Cinema programme mean that people with different needs can enjoy films together; pay-what-you-want screenings and free events give everyone the chance to experience great cinema and creative activities; films from across the globe mean that dozens of languages spoken by Leicester's diverse communities are represented on screen every year.

When we ask questions about you – about your age, your gender, your sexual orientation, your ethnic background, for example – it's because it helps us to make sure we're serving everyone in our community.

So thank you to everyone who has taken the time and trouble to complete our annual customer survey this year. You are helping to guide Phoenix into the future, so we can truly represent and serve our city, our country and our region.

AMAAL SAID: OPEN COUNTRY

Fri 27 Mar – Sun 28 Jun

Exhibition launch: Fri 27 Mar, 6pm – 8pm

Amaal Said's film Open Country follows a Somali mother and daughter who set out from their London home along the Old Kent Road, tracing the Pilgrims' Way into Bexley, North Kent, and beyond. The daughter plans to record an audio cassette diary for her grandmother, who is back home in Somalia and in ill health. Hoping to ease her mother's worries and lift her spirits, she uses the journey as a way to bring joy and to help her focus on the road ahead.

Inspired by a longing to connect with family abroad, the film explores the tension between being present in the here and now and yearning for another place.

Amaal Said is a London-based multidisciplinary artist; her photography has been featured in Vogue, The Guardian, and The New Yorker. Open Country will be accompanied by three still images of mother and daughter in The National Trust's Red House, one location from the film, that speak to connection, distance, and longing.

Join us for the exhibition launch on Friday 27 March from 6pm – 8pm, including a short talk from the artist and a drinks reception.

Commissioned for The Open Road by Film and Video Umbrella, Forma and Three Rivers.

The Open Road is commissioned by Film and Video Umbrella, The Amelia Scott, Cement Fields, FLAMIN, Forma, and Three Rivers. Supported using public funding by Arts Council England.

Kyoto is a place with its own proud traditions and customs – something Tokyo-based writer Madoka learns all too well when she starts a comic article celebrating the city. Miscommunication turn to outright havoc when an estate agent attempts to buy the family's traditional townhouse. A laugh-out-loud comedy of cultural misunderstandings.

We need your support

Phoenix is a registered charity, and we've been at the heart of Leicester's cultural scene for 60 years, first on Upper Brown Street, before moving to the city's Cultural Quarter in 2009.

These are challenging times – with big cuts to funding for arts and culture, and escalating operating costs.

As an independent charity we rely on donations to keep our doors open so we can keep serving Leicester's communities.

Please show your support for Phoenix by making a donation – you can do it online now, or at Box Office when you visit.

You can also support Phoenix by making us your first choice for cinema. Buy tickets, use our Café Bar, become a MyPhoenix member, buy Phoenix gift vouchers, hold your events here... and spread the word far and wide.

Community access to art and culture makes a real difference to people's lives – your support is vital to sustain our future and keep Phoenix here for Leicester.

A PROGRAMMER'S VIEW

Jake Harvey
Cinema Programme Manager

We've been in the midst of writing a funding bid at Phoenix over the past few weeks, thinking about what we want to deliver across the next three years – what do we want to achieve, who are we here for, what do we want audiences to experience. One thing that comes up is how do we demonstrate a "national impact"?

That question is an interesting one for us because our focus has always been local, figuring that the most important thing for us is to be doing great things for our audiences in Leicester and Leicestershire. Of course if anyone around the region likes what we're doing then the more the merrier, but they are also well served by their wonderful venues like Quad in Derby, Broadway and The Bonington in Nottingham, and Mockingbird and The MAC in Birmingham.

We don't think of ourselves in competition with these places, in fact we all support each other and know that for the industry to survive we need a network of thriving, community-driven venues that show great films and host amazing events.

I regularly talk to programmers at other organisations around the country and you couldn't ask for a more wonderful, passionate group of people to go to for support (or just a general cathartic moan). They are always ready with advice and solutions or a sympathetic ear.

Through this network we also find out about great films that are not on the UK film release schedule but have done well at their venues. Look out for Palestine Comedy Club in March and The North in April that have both come highly recommended. We also found out about the UK Green Screen Network, which was set up in 2023 by a group of cinemas in order to share ideas around Environmental film programming – and now we're looking forward to working with them on our Green Screen strand across the next few years.

So while we don't have a simple answer to the "national impact" question from funders and will continue to ponder it, we do very much feel like part of a nationwide community – cinemas and arts venues across Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and England, all supporting each other to deliver great cinema to their audiences.
